

R U OK?

Senior Call Program

The R U OK? Program is designed to provide assistance for the elderly, sick, home bound or disabled persons that live alone or do not have family to check on them on a consistent basis.

Citizens of the Stanley community that subscribe to this service will receive a call from the Stanley Police Department each weekday (Monday – Friday) to make sure they are OK, coherent and not in need of assistance. If a subscriber fails to answer the call after several attempts, a Stanley Police Officer will be sent to the residence in effort to make contact and confirm everything is OK. If the officer believes there may be situation of risk, an emergency contact or EMS may be notified. Each subscriber of this service must provide the Stanley Police Department with emergency response information including a brief medical, physician's name and number and emergency contacts in case EMS is called for a medical emergency.

If you are interested in this program for yourself or a loved one, please complete the R U OK? Program Application and submit to the Stanley Police Department during regular business hours or email alamb@townofstanley.org.

If you have any questions please call 704-263-4778 or email the above address.
